Don't tweet it. Blippit!

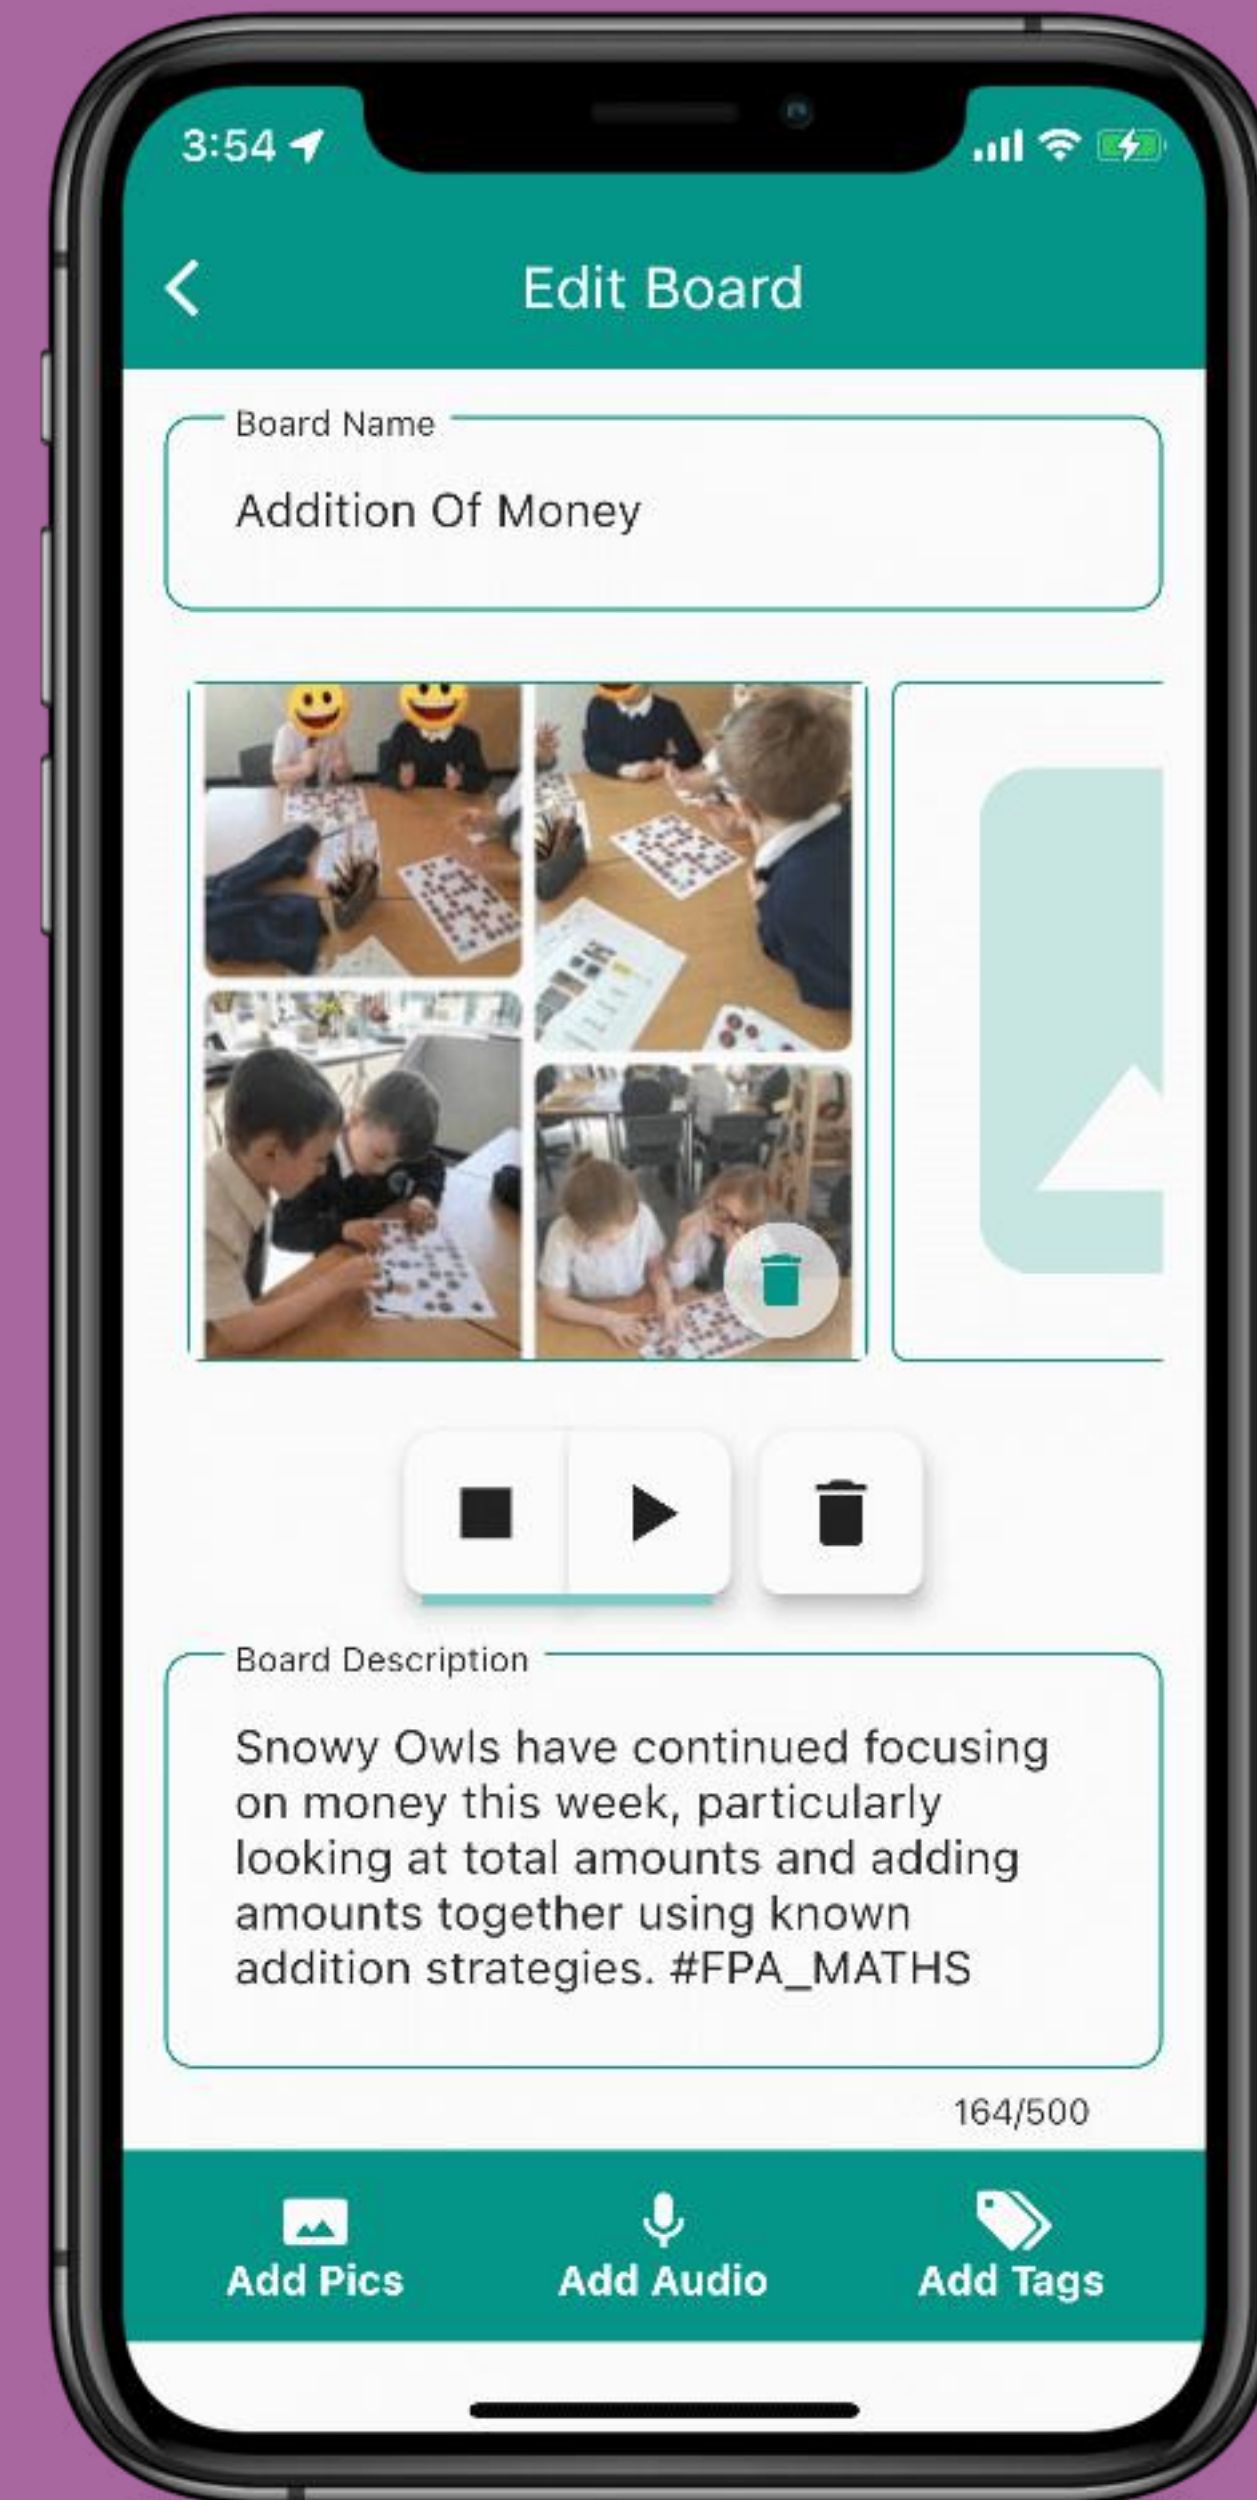

Your updates are highly valuable for subject leader monitoring

Here's a fabulous school tweet showcasing year 1 & 2 maths

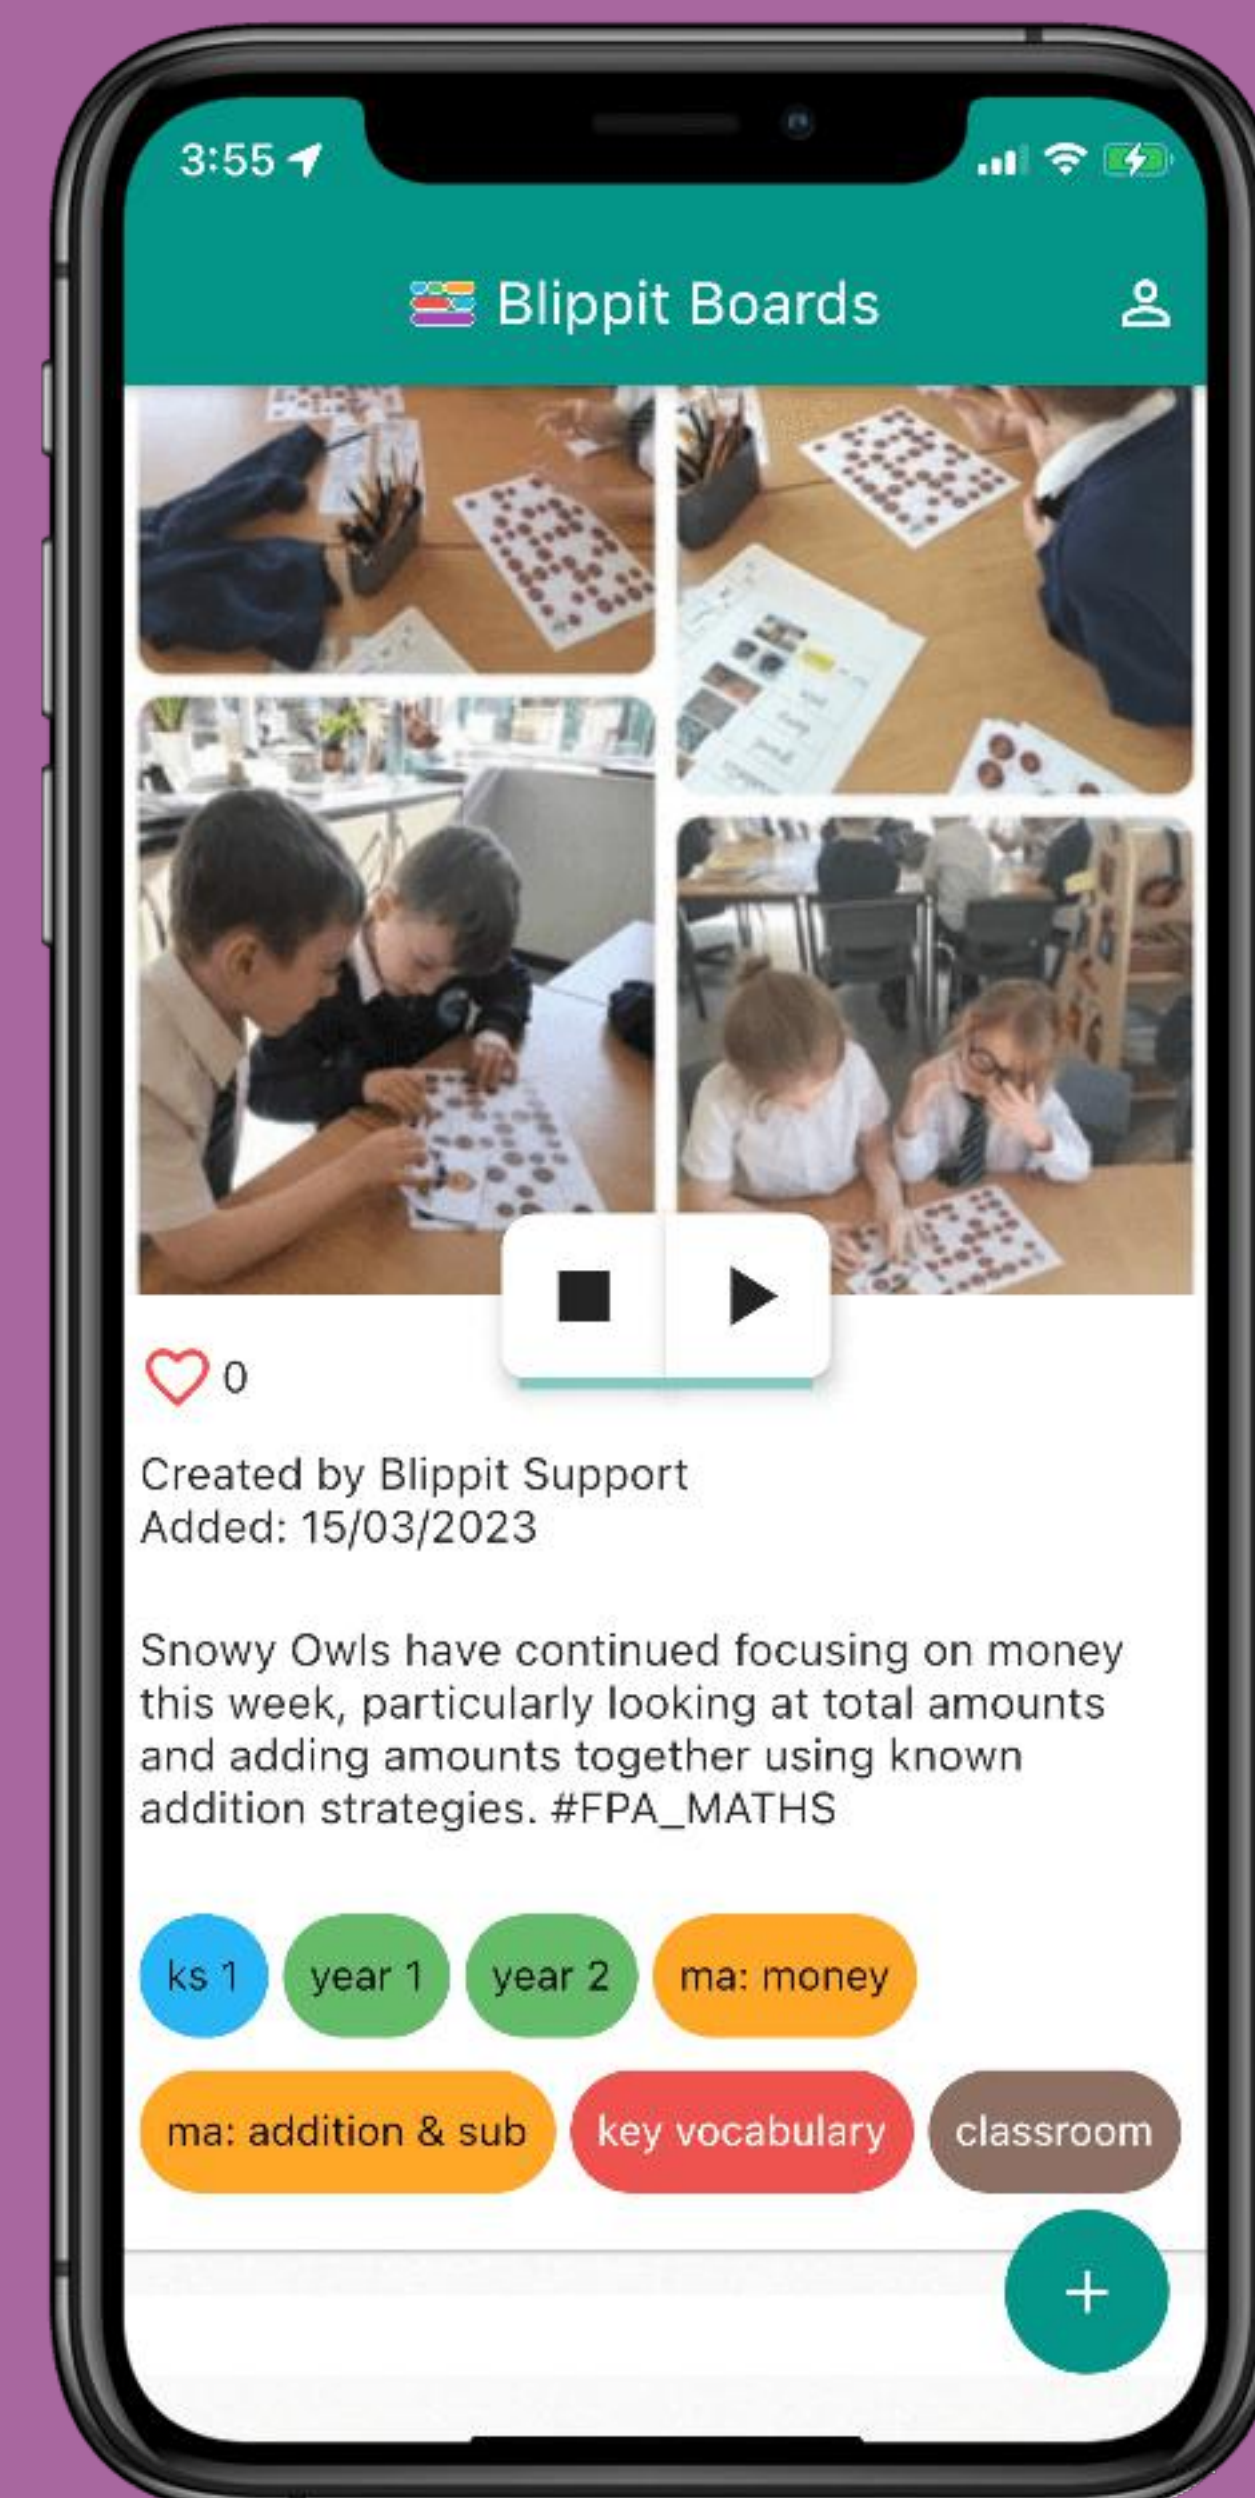

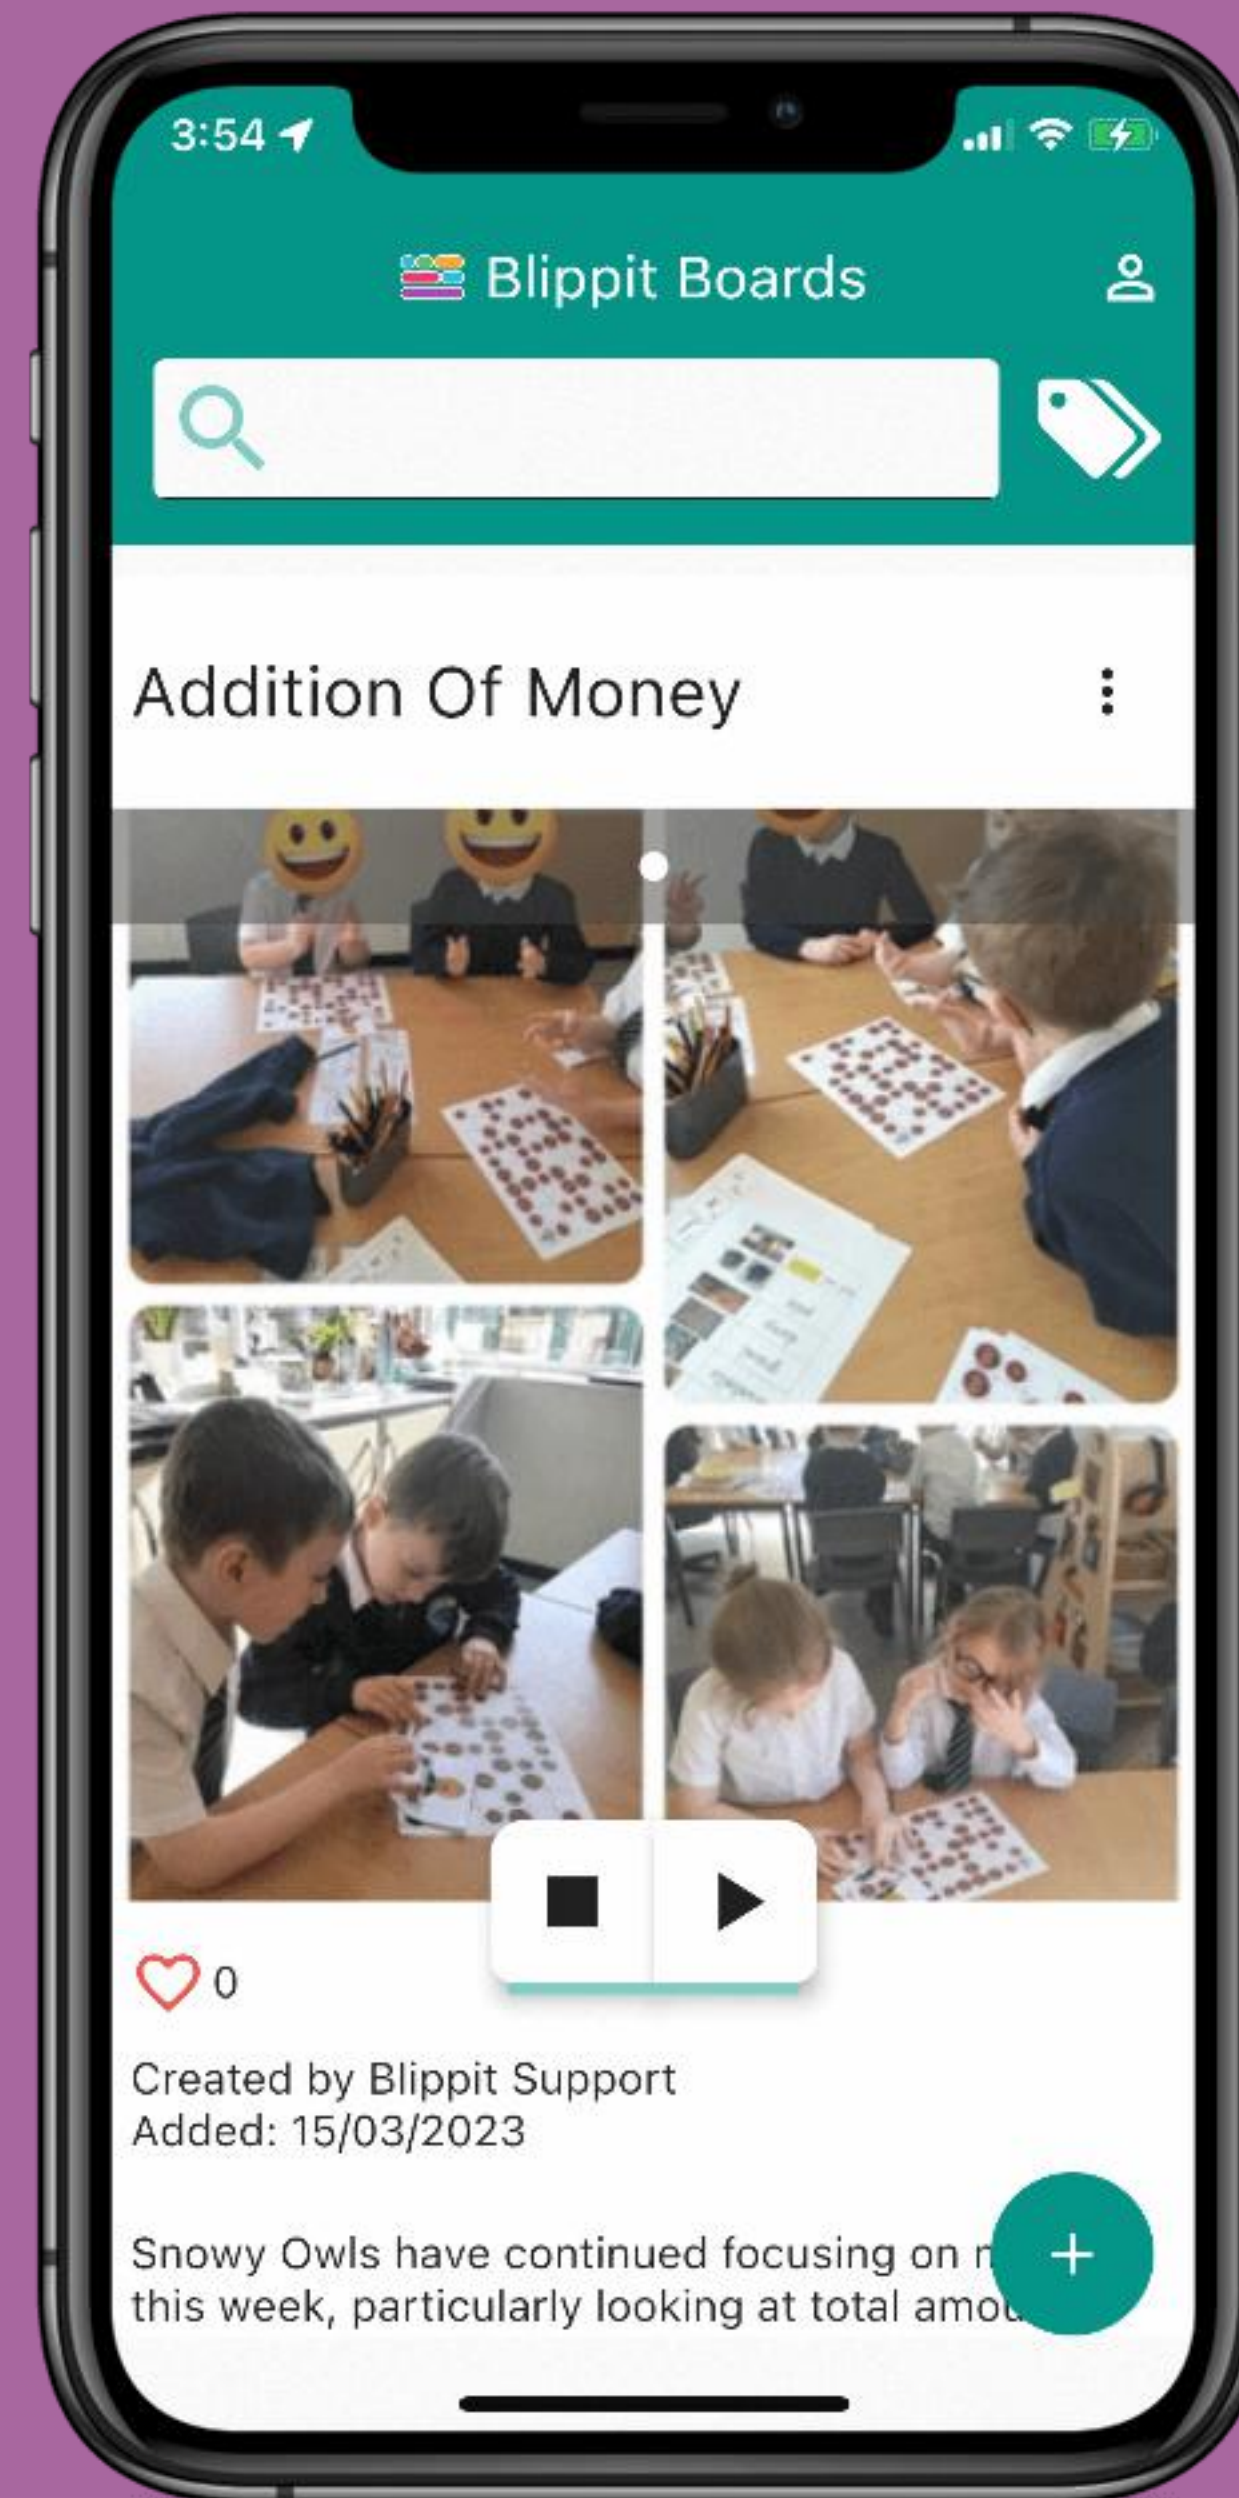

The tweet shares a maths example linked to addition of money

But, imagine
instead of tweeting,
the same information is added to Blippit

Pre-made tags speed things along by removing errors and notifications go to teachers.

The Subject Leader for maths is aware, happy & can even edit it.

This maths evidence also appears in the school's own private interactive dashboard.

The screenshot shows the 'Blippit Boards' interface. At the top, there is a teal header with the text 'Blippit Boards' and a menu icon. Below the header, the main content area is titled 'School Dashboard' with the subtitle 'Explore your subject monitoring data'. On the left side, there is a subscription notice: 'Subscription: 24 Months' and 'Renewal by 03/10/2024'. The main dashboard area contains four interactive cards:

- Board Chart Data: Features a bar chart icon. Description: 'Explore and export charts for reports'.
- Browse All Boards: Features a grid icon. Description: 'Browse every board created in school'.
- Simple Sort List View: Features a list view icon. Description: 'View and sort boards by users and date'.
- Manage Users: Features an icon of two people. Description: 'Invite new users and create extra Admins'.

As well as in the app, see it here in Browse All Boards

Gov visit: Computing Lead ♥ 0

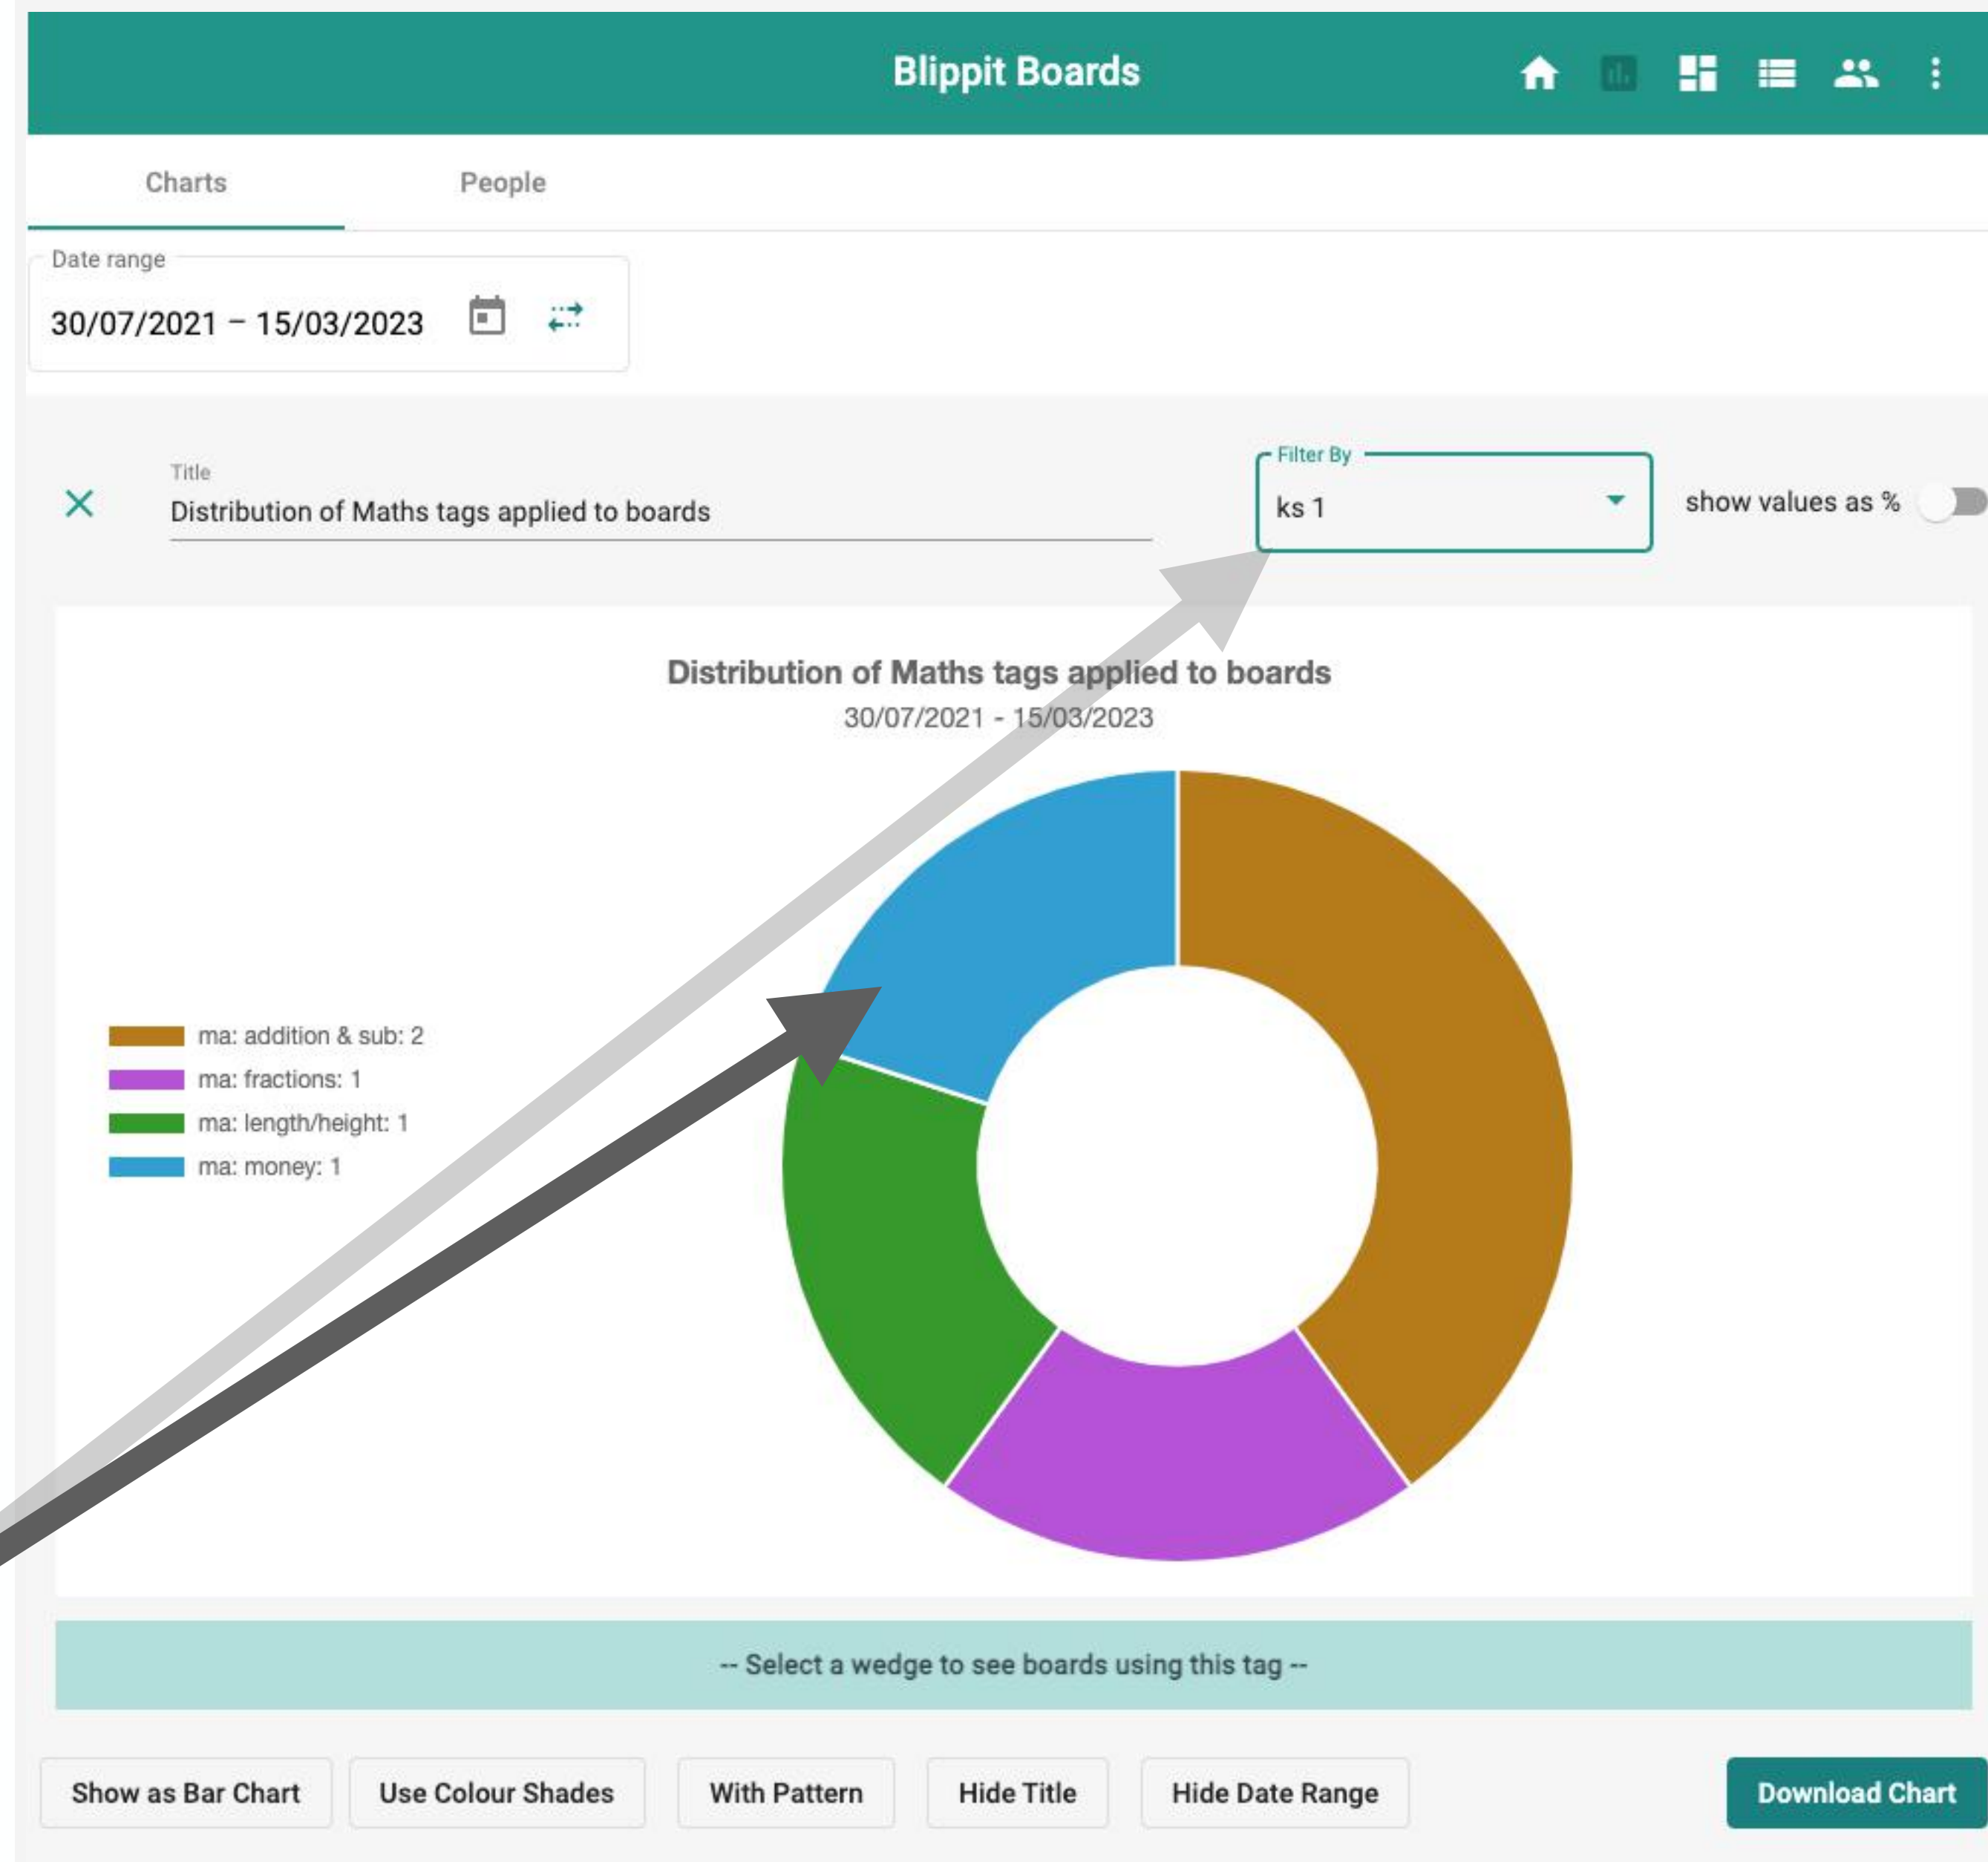

Created by Blippit Support
Added: 02/03/2023

The school governor and the computing subject lead reviewed the latest curriculum plans. Our curriculum intent was shared and discussed with questions asked by the governor. We talked about the computing curriculum development plan. I shared with the governor the results of a survey about accessibility to online learning at home with particular attention to how people premium was having a positive impact. It was great to have half an hour just to catch up and share what was going on.
